New York Firemen in Denver.

DENVER, September 21.—The veteran firemen of New York, accompanied by the Chief Engineer Board, arrived here this morning at 4:20 this evening at the Grand Opera House. They were met at the depot by a delegation of Denver firemen, headed by Chief Engineer Dr. McArthur, and escorted to the Brown Palace hotel, where rooms were tendered them by the proprietor. Mr. Brown. At 8 o'clock this evening the visitors will be escorted to the city hall, where a reception will be tendered them by the Denver firemen. The band will then proceed to the Platte River Front park to [illegible] a display of fireworks. The visitors will leave at 8 o'clock this evening for Colorado City and Manitou.

The Chatsworth Disaster.

CHICAGO, September 21.—Chief Engineer E. F. Leonard of the Toledo, Peoria & Western, has filed with the state railroad commissioners of Illinois his report of the Chatsworth disaster. He says that the accident was caused by the spreading of the rails by the weight of the train. The track was in good condition, and had been inspected by him on the day before the accident. There were 500 persons on the train, of whom eighteen are now dead. The engine and [illegible] were [illegible] Three or four are not expected to live. Fifty-two persons are still under the care of physicians. Three or four are in danger of fatal results.

A Bribe Tendered.

CONCORD, N. H., September 21.—The report of the senate investigating committee on the alleged attempted bribery of Senator Daniel Sawyer by Edward Parsons, recently tendered to Governor Person C. Cheney, says: "Upon our sustaining of the charges against Parsons, Governor Cheney will be asked to remove Parsons from the office of notary public, to which he was appointed by Governor Hale."

The head was found [illegible] The body was identified by [illegible] as that of Lillie Hoyt, who disappeared from Worcester September 5th.

Pacific Railroad Investigation.

NEW YORK, September 21.—The Pacific railroad commission resumed its session this morning. Mr. Gould was recalled and testified that the Texas Pacific had no agreement with the Missouri Pacific for a division of rates. Mr. Gould was asked if he had not said that Governor Stanford had told him that the Central Pacific would not build to Kansas City. He replied that he had not said so, but that Governor Stanford had told him that the Central Pacific would not build to Kansas City. Governor Stanford, in reply to a question, said that he had not said that the Central Pacific would not build to Kansas City. Colorado City does show more life than any place in the county. It is a source of regret that the National Editorial convention could not have visited the rapid of the two municipalities when in Pueblo.

We have received from Secretary A. Osborne, Secretary of the Board of Trade, a very interesting report of the business done in Colorado Springs during the month of August. The report is one of the most complete and interesting we have seen for some time, and shows that Colorado Springs is a live town.

A good many people are looking for Caleb from Mrs. Cleveland. He seems to be withdrawing from the review of the procession at Philadelphia was apparently struck with a sight of the Grand Army. This time Governor Pennoyer complains of being slighted. The story we published yesterday must be exaggerated. Good breeding would hardly leave a matter of such conduct to the host. If she were cool to those of the party she had insulted her husband should be praised rather than criticised. Probably this is all that the majority of.

The Massachusetts democrats have held their state convention and nominated their state ticket. The only men who had any chance of election such as the son of ex-Governor John A. Andrew and Leopold Morse, declined to be candidates. This was good evidence that the democrats have no hope of success to fall. They have nominated a very respectable man for governor, but he has about as little chance than the gentleman who withdrew early in the canvass. Some enthusiastic democrats have wished to consider Massachusetts in the doubtful state column. Mayor's letter seems to dispel that rather than confirm.

We understand that Perry & Perry are now in possession of the Colorado Springs and Colorado City Electric Railway. From these well known gentlemen we have every reason to expect a good road. It would also bring a great deal of business into the city. It would be a good thing for the city in the future if the road was completed this fall. We [illegible]

[illegible] the most diverse interests of the occasion centered in the procession, as it always does. The street committees had gone over the route the night before and lopped away all branches of trees likely to interfere with the splendors of the parade. At 9:30 the impressive body headed by a march, and, [illegible] you, it didn't carry a pound from advertised time. Other [illegible] undertook to do anything at a certain hour. If there had been we [illegible] have been here at the present writing. There was a place for as mighty an object as dignity as [illegible] symbolized. Maj. Philip Pro[illegible] led with twelve [illegible] in white [illegible] with black girdles and [illegible] caps. Then came the city troop. Then [illegible] place in the person of John Nixon, [illegible] a fifty-eight and bore the staff [illegible] of Liberty and a silk flag with [illegible] words in gold letters: "Fourth of July, 1776." A battery of four guns [illegible] with [illegible] which was a white silk flag representing the Franco Alliance of Feb. 6, 1778. Then [illegible] infantry, and another horseman with a staff [illegible] with olive and laurel, [illegible] the treaty of peace. Then [illegible], then a [illegible] in the capacity of Ingersoll [illegible] a new era. They were [illegible] pretty to a great depth. While [illegible] very [illegible] adorned their [illegible] and [illegible] they had [illegible] for the occasion.

The contribution was the piece de resistance of the parade. The chief [illegible] in their robes of office, sat in what had been in the woods as a [illegible] crate, [illegible] in the form of a large cradle, drawn by six horses, bearing the constitution, framed and [illegible] on a staff, crowned with the cap of Liberty, [illegible] "We the People" in gilt letters on the roof, [illegible] under the constitution [illegible].

Among the members of the Colorado Springs Fire Department who left Denver yesterday morning to witness the parade given in honor of the Veterans' Firemens' Association, of New York on the part of the firemen of Denver and the state. The visitors were the recipients of a perfect ovation from the citizens of Denver. They were escorted from the Union depot through the principal streets to the City Hall where several speeches were made. In the procession our local department was represented by three machines of the Jackson hose company. The Seventh regiment band, of New York, one of the crack musical organizations of the country formed a prominent feature of the parade. Several companies of the Colorado Springs department left on the 1:30 train last evening.

Mr. Robert Rose-Shade, the Denver architect, has just completed the plans and specifications for a handsome two-story brick block to be erected on Pikes Peak avenue. Our readers will remember that no action was taken a few weeks ago in these columns, that Rapp & Rapp, belonging to Mr. Charles R. Vorrath on the west, would have to replace, but was purchased by Mr. J. F. Huntington and that he would complete the building for which the frame was intended.
